Sue Litman Honoree

When Sue and her husband retired to Tennessee in 2003, she embodied the nickname of “The Volunteer State.” Many organizations received her time and talent and accepted her efforts with open arms. She felt that many organizations wouldn’t be able to provide the services that they do, without the help of volunteers. If help was needed, she would volunteer. The “Friends of the Library” is where she spent the majority of her time. From publishing the newsletter to overseeing the Friends Bookstore, she did what was needed. Sue was proud to be part of the organization and what it provided for the citizens of Cumberland County and the surrounding area. The “Friends of the Library” is well deserving of the proceeds from this golf tournament in her name.
